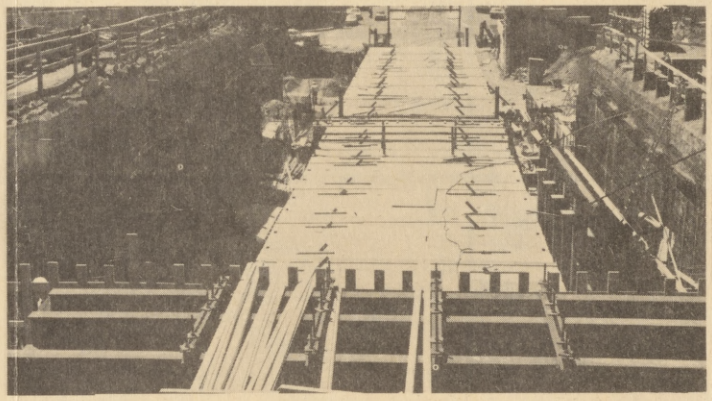
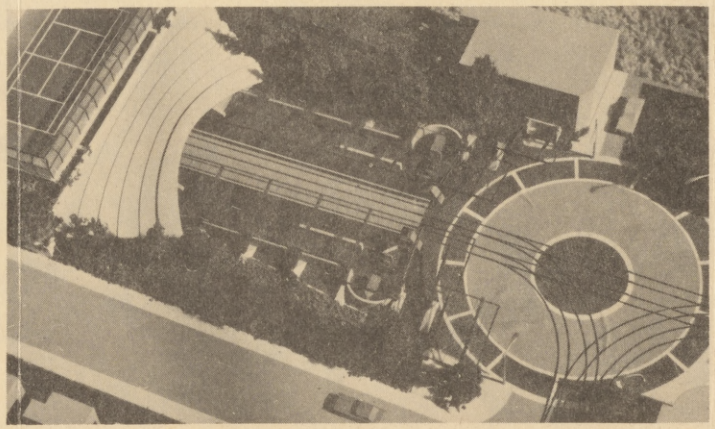
■ Members of the Board of Supervisors and others are shown visiting the West Portal of the Twin Peaks Tunnel in 1917, a few months before the 11,290-foot, $4.5 million shaft opened for service on February 3, 1918.



■ Today a new West Portal Station, half in and half out of the tunnel is under construction, with completion due late next year.



■ This model gives you an idea what the new $6.3 million West Portal Station will look like.
